

The ABCs of Resilience<sup>1</sup>

- A is the adversity the situation or event
- B is our belief our explanation about why the situation happened
- C is the consequence the feelings and behaviors that our belief causes.

1. Adversity. What is the activating event? What happened? What did I do? What did others do? What idea occurred to me? What emotions was I feeling? Describe the event objectively, Who? What? where? When?
2. Consequences. How am I feeling? Am I feeling anger, resentment, loss of control, anxiety? Am I behaving in a way that doesn't work for me? Record your feelings and actions.
3. Beliefs. What beliefs do I have about this event? Which of my beliefs are limiting/dysfunctional an which are helpful and self-enhancing? Record your thoughts about the event. Why do you think it happened?
4. Changing Beliefs. How can I dispute dysfunctional beliefs? What is the evidence that my belief is true? What helpful belief can I replace it with?

The goal of this exercise is to increase awareness of what really matters to you and make meaning of difficult situations by identifying your top five life values. Values are the answer to the questions: What's important to you in your life? What is your life's purpose? What do you enjoy doing? When do you feel satisfied and fulfilled?

Being aware of your values by answering the above questions will help you navigate your life in the direction that you choose. You have the potential to live the life of your dreams, but how do you do this without looking inward? Understanding our own core values helps guide us towards our passions and desires. Please complete the five steps below.

1. Brainstorm. Take five minutes to brainstorm what your own values are without referring to the list on the next page
2. Review the values list on the next page and check those values that resonate with you.
3. Progress. This list is always a work-in-progress. If you wish, you may add other values from your brainstorming session or those that you think of along the way through this process:

4. Prioritize. Group your values under related themes. Values like accountability, responsibility, and timeliness are all related. Values like learning, growth, and development relate to each other. Connection, belonging, and intimacy are related too. Group them together.

If you have a group of values that include honesty, transparency, integrity, candor, directness, and truth, select a word that best represents the group. For example, integrity might work as a central theme for the values I listed.

You can keep the other words in the group in parentheses to give your primary value more context.

Now prioritize your values and make a selection of five of your most important values. Why five? Too few and you won't capture all the unique dimensions of your being. Too many and you'll forget them or won't take advantage of them. While the number of core values differs for each person, the magic range seems to be between 5 and 10.

List your to	o five values below:

IV.

	Take a few minutes to discuss with a partner what each of the above values means to you.
